Lament of the Widowed Inebriate.

BY DUGANNE. I'm thinking on thy smile, Mary— Thy bright and trusting smile— In the morning of our youth and love, Ere sorrow came-or guile; When thine arms were twined about my neck, And mine eyes looked into thine, And the heart that throbbed for me alone, Was nestling close to mine !

I see full many a smile, Mary, On young lips beaming bright, And many an eye of light and love Is flashing in my sight :But the smile is not for my poor heart, And the eye is strange to me, And fineliness comes o'er my soul When its memory turns to thee.

I'm thinking on the night, Mary, The night of grief and shame, When with drunken ravings on my lips, To thee I homeward came,-O, the tear was in thine earnest eye, And thy bosom wildly heaved, Yet a smile of love was on thy cheek, Though the heart was sorely grieved ! But the smile soon left thy lips, Mary,

And thine eye grew dim and sad; For the tempter lured my steps from thee, And the wine-cup drove me mad: From thy cheek the roses quickly fled, And thy ringing laugh was gone, Yet thy heart still fondly clung to me; And still kept trusting on.

O, my words were harsh to thee, Mary, For the wine-cup made me wild; And I chid thee when thine eyes were sad, And I cursed thee when they smiled; God knows I loved thee even then, But the fire was in my brain, The curse of drink was in my heart, To make my love a bane. 'Twas a pleasant home of ours, Mary,

In the spring time of car life, When I looked upon thy sunny face, And proudly called thee wife-And 'twas pleasant when our children played Before oilr cottage door ! But the children sleep with thee, Mary,

I shall never see them more ! Thou'rt resting in the church-yard, now, And no stone is at thy head! But the sexten knows a drunkard's wife Sleeps in that lowly bed ;And he says the hand of God, Mary, Will fall with crushing weight On the wretch who brought thy gentle life To its untimely fate!

But he knows not of the broken heart I hear within my breast, Or the heavy load of vain remorse, That will not let me rest: He knows not of the sleepless nights, When dreaming of thy love, I seem to see thine angel eyes,

Look coldly from above. I have raised the wine-cup in my hand, And the wildest strains I've sung, Till with the laugh of drunken mirth The echoing air has rung : But a pale and sorrowing face looked out From the glittering cup on me,

And a trembling whisper I have heard Than I fancied, breathed by thee! Thou art slumbering in the peaceful grave, And thy sleep is dreamless now, But the seal of an undying grief Is on thy mourner's brow, And my heart is chill as thine, Mary, For the joys of life have fled, And I long to lay my aching breast

> . PROSPECTUS OF The "Congressional Union" and "Ap-

THE undersigned respectfully inform the public that, with the commencement of the approaching session of Congress, they will begin the publication of the "Congressi Union" and "Appendix." The first will contain a full and accurate history of the daily proceedings of both branches of the national legislature. It will be compiled with such care, that every citizen who is interested in the public affairs will find it a complete synopsis of their proceedings, and a ready book of reference upon all questions which come before

The second, (the "Appendix,") will contain every speech which is delivered in the House of Representatives and Senate during the session, reported at length by a full and able corps of congressional reporters, and revised before publica-tion by the authors, whenever it is requested. These two works will be strictly impartial, and are intended to be as interesting and useful to the man of business, and to the politician of the one party, as of the other.

It may be said, without exaggeration, that the next session of Congress is destined to be one of the most important which has taken place since the foundation of the govern-ment. It is the long session. It is the session which will develope the general plan of the present administration. Its The consumption of meat in Paris, during April last, was 6458 oxen, 1374 cows, 6862 calves, and 40,413 sheep being 510 oxen less, and 228 cows, 615 calves, 1915 sheep more than in April, 1843.

develope the general plan of the present administration. Its measures will stamp the character of our institutions for years to come. Some of the most important questions which are connected with our foreign relations, or our domestic concerns, will be presented for their consideration. The final measure of ratifying the constitution of Texas, which is consummate her administration. Its ure which affects the Oregon question—our relations with Mexico—as well as the final decision on the revived Zoll-Verein treaty,—these, and other measures which are more or less connected with our foreign relations, will come under the review of the approaching Congress. Most of the eminently important questions which relate to our internal concerns—the revision of the tariff—the adoption of the best mode for preserving the public moneys—a variety of commercial measures—perhaps the best system of regulating the important interests of Texas—the Indian questions—the land question—the best system for our navy,—these and others will constitute a mass of business which is calculated to command much of the time of Congress, and much of the attention of the people. They will all be reported by the "Congressional Union."

The Daily, Semi-Weekly, and Weekly Union, will, as usual, embrace an interesting variety of matter on political, scientific, and literary subjects, along with the current news of the day. The editor will continue to devote all his energies to the improvement of "The Union." He finds many facilities which his position enables him to employ; with the official and other materials placed within his reach; and with the aid of the correspondence which he is attempting to establish in foreign countries, a paper may be published which is not unworthy the support of his country. In un-dertaking the task, he knew he had many difficulties to overcome, many lessons to learn, many sacrifices to encounter. He knew that, amid the arduous cares of a new theatre, he could not at first do justice even to himself; but his zeal has never flagged. What enthusiasm and industry can effect, will be fully accomplished. Some errors he may have already committed. But upon one point, he can speak with great pleasure and with equal freedom. The men who are administering this government are working men, anxious, as he believes, to do their duty, to serve their country, to carry out the pledges under which the President was elected, and the great principles of the party. So long as the administrais prepared to co-operate with them in the public service: liberal, and efficient support."

We feel a deep sense of gratitude for the prompt manner in which our political friends, in every section of the country, have already come forward to sustain the "Union."

PTAs this will be the long session of Congress, and will probably last eight months, we have concluded to publish the Congressional Union and Appendix on the following TERMS. For The Congressional Union, $1 50 per copy. For The Appendix, $1 50 per copy.
